FOREST HEALTH AND MANAGEMENT

Alpine County received grant funding from Sierra Nevada Conservancy to complete a stakeholder assessment report. The goal is to identify key issues and meaningful pathways forward for stakeholder collaboration in forest health and natural resource efforts. Sierra Institute for Community and Environment conducted a series of interviews with a diverse range of county residents and stakeholders. Environmental, social, economic, and tribal concerns and issues are identified and discussed in the report. During the workshop, we will review the report's key findings, major takeaways, and proposed recommendations.
